SHIPMATE RECEIVES SERVICE QUILT

(SUBMITTED PHOTO)

Shipmate Hank Jacoby of Greenwood proudly displays a patriotic quilt that he received recently at a Fleet Reserve Association USS Indianapolis Memorial Branch 130 breakfast. The quilt neckline of our National Eagle is made of several of his buttons from his military uniforms. The quilt was handmade by Jacoby's sisters, Macy Magnuson of California and Diane Alford of Texas. The branch consists of shipmates from the sea services of the U.S. Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard. Branch 130 meets the first Monday of each month at 6 p.m. at the Greenwood VFW, 1842 Veterans Way, Greenwood and breakfast on the second Tuesday of each month at Denny's off I-65 Exit 99 in Greenwood.

Perry Pool to be closed this summer for improvements

By AI Stilley
Editor

Perry Pool will be closed this outdoor season for much-needed maintenance and repairs.

Replacing the large playhouse and spray features are scheduled along with repairing and painting the slide stair tower. Repairs are needed on the pool deck and other areas.

Some city pools are scheduled to open soon but with current health protocols in effect until recently announced recommendations go into effect June 7.

"I'm sure that those who have enjoyed Perry Pool in past summers will be disappointed," Indy Parks communication spokesperson Renetta Spalding said. "We look at rotating maintenance at our city pools. We are looking forward to Perry Pool being open again in 2022."

The closest Indy Parks aquatic facilities are at Garfield Park Aquatic Center and Indy Island at Raymond Park, 8575 E. Raymond St. Other Indy Parks pools to be open are Bethel Park, Brookside Park, Frederick Douglass Park, Gustafson Park, Krannert Park, Northwestway Park, Riverside Park, and Thatcher Park.

Only five pools, including Perry Pool were open in 2019 due to the COVID-19 pandemic, according to Indy Parks.

Neighborhood Indy Parks splash pads are now open through Labor Day, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Southside splash pads are at Jake Greene Park, 1700 Franklin Road, and Wildwood Park, 8100 Southeastern Ave. Splash pad patrons are encouraged to practice social distancing and proper hygiene. Bids are being taken for a matting project in the Perry Skate facility and should be approved before skating resumes.

Spalding also emphasized the need for more lifeguards this summer. Pools are to be opened safely with existing staff on a rotating basis. Selected summer pools may close two to three days per week, giving staff needed breaks and allowing parks to share seasonal staff as needed.

Indy Parks is increasing its lifeguard pay to $13 per hour as the final hiring push

Indy "500" THE GREATEST SPECTACLE IN RACING

Reinbold team to make third straight 500 start from last row

Indianapolis 500 team owner Dennis Reinbold has been through Bump Day before. Each one has been unique and Sunday was no different at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

For the third straight year, the Dreyer Reinbold Racing (DRR) team was involved in Bump Day drama with the same result - a 31st starting position on the grid for the third straight 500. The drama has been different each time around.

Sunday, Karam was the first among five drivers onto the 2.5-mile oval to go for the three spots in the last row. Driving the No. 24 DRR entry, it was small team against Goliaths, 2018 race winner Will Power of Team Penske and Simona De Silvestro in a Penske-supported team and Charlie Kimball in an A.J. Foyt-owned entry.

"People call us a part-time team but last year we ran in four IndyCar races," Reinbold said. "We're just not a full-time Indy team."

Karam put four laps together Sunday for an average of 229.156 miles per hour, fastest among the five drivers looking for the final three spots on the grid. The DRR Chevrolet team was faster than Power (228.876) and De Silvestro (228.353). A.J. Foyt team driver Charlie Kimball and rookie RC Enerson were not fast enough.

Unlike last year, Karam did not have to bump his way into the lineup or sweat out being bumped Sunday after the Bump Day drivers had made their first attempts.

"I've had experience doing this (Bump Day), so it helps to get through it," said Karam, who starts in his eighth 500. "I had a good four laps (but) it was the longest hour for me. I'm really proud of the team; the way they kept working so hard to get me in the show."

"As a one-car, Indy-only team, we had to go up against two cars basically Penske-prepared for Will and Simona. And we beat them today. I think that is very cool."

Karam has started four 500-mile races from the last row, including George Snider, Tom Bigelow and Buddy Lazier. He started 31st as a rookie in 2014 with DRR and finished ninth to earn the "hard charger" award.

Karam returned to the track later Sunday for a two-hour

A HAPPY DAY FOR THE DIXONS

First to reach 2021 pole winner Scott Dixon is his wife Emma in pit lane Sunday. Dixon won the Pole Day qualifications among the Fast Nine drivers Sunday at 231.685 miles per hour in the familiar No. 9 Chip Ganassi Racing Honda. Dixon is starting from the pole for fourth time.

NINE 500 WINNERS IN RACE

Legends Foyt, Stewart on same team for 500 Sunday

By AI Stilley
Editor

Racing legends, four time Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt and three-time NASCAR Cup champion Tony Stewart will be together at the 105th running of the race Sunday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

"We're going to have a blast," said Stewart whose 50th birthday was May 20. "We'll be there for the race for sure."

At Foyt's invitation, Stewart plans to be in the pit box with Foyt for driver J.R. Hildebrand and the No. 1 ABC Supply Foyt Stewart Racing Chevrolet. The racecar bears the same colors as the Boves Seal Fast-sponsored entry that he drove to his first 500 win 60 years ago. Teammates Sebastien Bourdais starts 27th in the No. 14 Chevrolet and Dalton Kellett 30th in the No. 4 Chevrolet.

Their eyes are on the same prize, according to Foyt, who said, "I'd like to win the race so he (Stewart) could know what victory circle is like in the 500 with the Indy car. That would be the most fun week I've had, both of us."

Stewart, winner of three NASCAR Brickyard 400s, never made it to victory lane in his five 500 starts with a top finish of fifth place.

The rural Columbus resident recalled his first 500 in 1996 in a media conference call earlier this month.

"The biggest thing that I remember of race morning is that's the closest I've ever been to throwing up before a race," Stewart said.

Indiana's own Tony Stewart shook down the 1961 Indianapolis 500 winning No. 14 Boves Seal Fast Spl, last month at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway where Southport's Robin Miller, kneeling, interviewed four-time 500 winner A.J. Foyt and Stewart for RACER magazine.

FIRST TRIP TO LONG'S DONUTS

While delivering last week's edition to Long's Bakery, I got to witness 7-month-old Owen Darland visit the bakery for his first time. He was with his parents, Ben and Ariel Darland. Sister Savannah, holding her own bag too, celebrated her third birthday on Friday. Ben, the son of Mike and Bonnie Darland, was born and raised on the Southside and graduated from Southport High School. He met Ariel while attending Ball State. They now reside in Greenwood.

'POOL GUYS' SAY GOOD-BYE

For six years, a group of friends known as the "Pool Guys" have enjoyed playing pool six days a week for six years at Greenwood Community Church's Gathering Place. They are with Lori DeBoard of the Gathering Place third, from left. The guys are Neil Larson, Ron Pio, Wayne Klingberg, John Keith, and Gary Dillon; not pictured, Bill Ferraro. They thanked the Gathering Place personnel for their continued hospitality through the years. The Gathering Place will be closing at the end of the month and become the new home of Greenwood Christian Academy, grades 9-12, to be known as GCA North. Pre-school through eighth-grade will remain at the current site and become GCA South.

2021 TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Homecroft Kindergarten Academy teacher Alison Scott is the 2021 Perry Township Teacher of the Year. She was surprised with that honor recently at an outdoor gathering by Superintendent Pat Mapes and other administrators.

A 17-year district employee, Scott was nominated by her colleagues for her devotion to her students and school. She works hard to build a strong sense of community in her classroom that helps her understand the varied needs of all her students. To help her students excel, she uses many instructional resources and models her instruction, which allows her students to interact with content and experience the lessons.

She also spends countless hours planning and scripting her lessons. During the past year, to ensure that her in-person and virtual students receive the same high-quality learning, she would write a script, practice, and record each virtual lesson to allow for more time to assist with individual student support.

Scott also plans weekly after-school meetings with her team and other teachers to stay updated on the most effective teaching techniques. She attends many district-level trainings, building retreats, and any professional development opportunities. She is always looking for additional ways to improve her instruction and is never afraid to ask questions.

Her interactions are positive, whether instructing her students, sharing her techniques with new teachers, or planning extracurricular programs.

We are thankful to all teachers who have gone above and beyond to give students a positive, high-quality education, especially during a pandemic.

Preschool students at the Early Childhood Academy marked the end of preschool with a pre-K parade. The young graduates were greeted with cheers as they walked around the academy. They are looking forward to attending the district's kindergarten academies in the fall.

FIELD DAY FUN FOR SES STUDENTS

A field day at Southport Elementary School ended the recent school year with lots of fun, including races and tug-of-war. Principal Jeff Spencer, the District 7 Principal of the Year, thrilled students by braving the dunk tank.

Personal Recollections

OUT OUR BACKYARD

Springtime is so much fun in our backyard that connects to a large easement and to one of the back pastures of the Southport Equestrian Center. It is always possible to see and hear several horses in that pasture.

My wife Lyn has been busy getting her garden planted. It is located back on the easement and close to a small creek. The building and fenced-in area (top and sides) that house our chicken girls is also located on the easement. It is a very safe facility for them.

Last week, one afternoon, I noticed a large bird flying around and sitting on a fence post near the chicken girl's area. I grabbed my binoculars and quickly saw that it was a young owl that seemed interested in the easy life the girls were enjoying. I've also noticed several owl families in our area that are interesting to watch and study.

A couple of weeks ago, I was watching the morning news on television, glanced out a window where I can see the easement and, to my surprise, I saw several deer walking toward the creek. They seemed to enjoy their walk for a nice cool drink of creek water.

A few days ago, I was walking out to open up the chicken girl's doors and I saw a tiny bird sitting on the steps of our patio. It didn't move as I stepped closer. I figured that it might be injured. I tried to pick it up twice when it jumped and landed on one of my shoes. I was wearing a pair of old sweatpants and was surprised when it started climbing my pants leg. It climbed up to my knee and then flew away.

The bird only reached a couple of the bird feeders. I checked about 30 minutes later and it was gone. Later, I think it was the same type bird sitting on one of the feeders and watching me closely. It seemed to be active and doing great. I looked up what type of bird that I had become friends with, and I believe it to be a Black-capped Chickadee.

There are many wild animals and birds that use this small creek for drinking water. Coyotes, wolves, and foxes are often seen in the area. I find it very interesting when some of our neighbors tell their stories about the animals they have seen or encountered near the creek.

I also had heard some stories about a small young fox being seen along the creek. I looked out a few days ago and saw a small red fox. We made eye contact and it quickly vanished toward the creek.

Our dog, Stuart has learned over the years that many of those wild animals' patrol around the neighborhood during the dark of night. He has developed a plan to hopefully ensure his safety. On his first trip out our backdoor each morning, he stands on the patio and loudly barks. It seems that he's telling all the animals that might still be in our yard that it's time for them to go home quietly. His plan seems to be working well.

A 26-ounce bottle of Pepsi cost 25 cents at G.C. Murphy in Fountain Square, where 4-inch pots of geraniums were 50 cents and a chaise longue with two chairs cost $11.97.

Research on marijuana found that traces of it were in the brain within 10 minutes of use and remained in the blood for three days. However, the study didn't offer evidence on how the drug affected users ... the researchers just said it was a bad drug.

The winner faces the Franklin Central-Warren Central winner in the title game Thursday at 7 p.m.

Roncalli's Courtney Keller, Kaelin Cash, and Gracie Holock each slammed home runs Monday against the Cardinals. Lyla Blackwell added three hits. Royals pitcher Keagan Rothrock struck out nine hitters.

Southport's Kylie Sloan drove in pitcher Johnna Bear with her only hit.

New Palestine pounded Perry Meridian, 19-1 Monday.

What to do prior to a COVID-19 shot

By Sarah Stelzner, M.D.
Pediatrician with Eskenazi Health

If you've been waiting for an opportune time to begin receiving COVID-19 vaccinations, that time is right now.

Vaccines are readily available in many areas, and at some locations you may walk right in without an appointment to receive one. To schedule an appointment, you can sign up at ourshot.in.gov or call 211. In addition, individuals 12 years and older may now receive the two-shot Pfizer vaccine, and those 18 years old and older may receive one of the other two vaccines, either Moderna (two-shot) or Johnson and Johnson (one and done). Once you've decided to get vaccinated, here are a few suggestions for you to consider to help the experience go well.

One very important aspect to this process is be ready to expose your upper arm when it's time for the injection, and you might want to choose to offer your less dominant arm for the shot in case post-vaccine soreness sets in.

Common side effects you may receive after a COVID-19 shot are similar to the ones you may get from other vaccines such as a mild fever, headache, fatigue, joint pain, and pain or swelling at the site of the vaccine. These mild symptoms may develop over the first couple days and should be temporary.

When you have side effects, what you're feeling is your immune system at work trying to build up that immunity and protection we're all looking for to stay safe from the coronavirus, which is exactly what's supposed to happen. Being well hydrated before, during and after the vaccine and using Tylenol (acetaminophen) or Ibuprofen will help with these normal side effects.

After you receive a vaccine, you'll be asked to remain on site for 20 minutes or so as a precaution to ensure all is well before you head home. You'll want to be sure to bring home your vaccine card and take a photo of it, and store it in a safe place. That card will provide evidence of vaccination and be a good reminder of which vaccine you received, the dates of your dose or dosages and any follow-up appointments required. It will also allow you to access events and places that will require vaccination for entry.

People who believe they may have been exposed to COVID-19 should contact their health care provider immediately. If you are ill with flu-like symptoms such as fever, cough or shortness of breath, please call your health center or clinic before coming to your appointment. If you are an Eskenazi Health patient, please call 317.880.7666 before coming to your appointment. Health care professionals are available 24/7 to answer questions on symptoms and direct you to the most appropriate care. It is important to first call before arriving at Eskenazi Health.

Beech Grove collides with 3A sectional host Cathedral tonight at 5:30 p.m. with the winner meeting Bishop Chatard for the title Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

In the 1A sectional at Morristown, Southside foes Lutheran and Greenwood Christian Academy squared off Tuesday.

TENNIS SECTIONALS

Southport claimed its ninth consecutive sectional championship by sweeping Shortridge, 5-0. Carlie Streit and seniors Maddie Lukas and Baylee Watson won their singles matches. Doubles matches were captured by No. 1 duo Annie Sung and Ngun Za Mawi and No. 2 Macey Lukas and Ngun Cer. The Cardinals dominated the title match by winning all but three sets overall.

Roncalli won the Franklin Central sectional with a thrilling 3-2 win against the host Flashes. The Royals No. 2 duo of Katrina Gangstad and Elise Kerr won the all-important clinching match after teammates Claire Wagner and Rebecca Zakrowski each won their singles matches.

Southport met regional host Center Grove and Roncalli met Triton Central on the Trojans court Tuesday.

Roncalli's tennis team captured the program's 12th sectional championship by edging Franklin Central, 3-2. The Royals faced Triton Central in the first round Tuesday of the Center Grove Regional. The winner would face the Center Grove-Southport winner for the regional title tonight (Wednesday) at 4:30 p.m.

TRACK REGIONALS

IHSAA track and field regionals for girls qualifiers were held Tuesday with top three finishers in each event qualifying for the state finals June 5. Southside boys qualifiers compete in regionals Thursday at 6 p.m. at Lawrence Central and Warren Central. Boys state finals are June 4.

"The nerves were at a level that I had never seen before in my entire life, in any form of motorsports leading up to my first Indy 500... it was extremely hard to stay composed."

In 1995, Stewart was a crewmember for Foyt driver Eddie Cheever, who was involved in a multiple car accident on the first lap. Stewart had raced at Lucas Oil Raceway in Brownsburg in a sprint car race on the night before the 500.

The two champions have been longtime friends and share strong legacies. When Stewart first raced in NASCAR, he raced with Foyt's famed No. 14 on the car and with Foyt at his first Daytona 500. And when he won his first NASCAR Cup title in 2002, Foyt was the first to call him after all the victory photos and interviews.

Foyt presented Stewart, then 24, with his championship rings for being the first driver to win USAC's Triple Crown of national championships in midget, sprint, and Silver Crown cars in 1995.

The Hoosier driver considers Foyt as his racing hero. They joke around with each other, but there is mutual respect.

"I think our personalities are a lot alike," Stewart observed. "We both have a very limited and small filter and are used to calling a spade a spade. My career path I think wasn't intentional necessarily but did follow a lot of what AJ has done in his career, so I feel like I'm just a later generation version of A.J."

Foyt added, "We do a lot of things the same way. He wants to win. I want to win. We both put up with no B.S. from nobody. I know it ain't good for either one of us, but we kind of express the way we feel, and that's one thing I've respected about Tony."

Stewart is retired as a NASCAR driver, but is a co-owner of a NASCAR Cup team with Gene Haas, and owns Eldora Speedway, two racing series, and two wing sprint-car teams. He races a sprint car in a national series and ran close friend Leah Pritchett's top fuel dragster.

The A.J. Foyt Enterprises team president is Larry Foyt, a former 500 and NASCAR Cup driver, who is Foyt's adopted son. The team's local headquarters is on Main Street in Speedway next door to the A.J. Foyt Wine Vault.

The 500 is scheduled to start Sunday at 12:45 p.m.

Desks in White House and Pentagon made from historic Navy ships

Heritage desks crafted from U.S. Navy's most celebrated ships are at the Naval History and Heritage Command Washington Naval Yard before delivery to the White House and Pentagon.

By Randy L. Adams II
Mass Communication Specialist

In 1794, President George Washington signed the Naval Armament Act that authorized construction of the frigate USS Constitution.

More than two centuries later, part of the historic ship can be found in the White House office of the Vice President and the Pentagon office of the Secretary of the Navy in the form of executive desks.

On loan from the Naval History Heritage Command (NHHC), sailors built the Vice President's desk of reclaimed materials from the USS Constitution, the world's oldest commissioned warship afloat, America's Ship of State, and the only currently commissioned U.S. Navy vessel to have sunk an enemy warship. The desk was presented to the Office of the Vice President shortly after the inauguration.

A few months later, the NHHC presented to the Office of the Secretary of the Navy a desk similarly made from USS Constitution, plus parts from one of Constitution's sister ships USS Chesapeake, the sloop-of-war museum ship USS Constellation, and the battleships USS Texas, USS Arizona, and USS New Jersey. NHHC Director Rear Adm. Sam Cox, retired, commissioned the building of both desks.

The Secretary of Navy's desk was the brainchild of the 77th Secretary of the Navy, Kenneth J. Braithwaite.

Reclaimed historic materials from the ships to build the desks include:

- USS Constitution: Lumber, copper, and nails from "Old Ironsides."
- USS Chesapeake: A small beam of the ship's lumber repatriated from Great Britain, which took the frigate as a war prize after its capture during the War of 1812.
- USS Constellation: Wood from this sloop of war, the last sail-only ship designed and built (1854) by the United States.
- USS Texas: Steel plating
- USS Arizona: Steel plating and inlaid remnants of the ship.
- USS New Jersey: Deck bolts.

The desks were constructed by a team of U.S. Navy Construction Battalion (Seabee) personnel to hone their subspecialty skills as master craftsmen in woodworking and metalworking, assisted by the expert historic shipwrights of NHHC Detachment Boston.

practice with reduced turbocharger boost for all 33 cars. The 26-year-old driver remarked that the added boost for qualifying upset the balance of the car and produced understeer. With less boost on the first day of practice, Karam was No. 4 on the speed chart.

"We showed really good speed early in the week," Reinbold said. "I felt like we were ahead of where we've been before we came here."

Scott Dixon, the 2008 race winner, earned the pole Sunday for the fourth time with a dramatic Fast Nine average of 231.685, edging Colton Herta (231.665), that figures out to six feet over the 10-mile run. Rinus VeeKay (231.511), winner of the GMR Grand Prix this month, completes the front row.

Power and Dixon are among nine 500 winners in the lineup, including Tony Kanaan, Ryan Hunter-Reay, Helio Castroneves, Alexander Rossi, Takuma Sato, Simon Pageneud, and Juan Pablo Montoya.

Reinbold has put together an all-Indy connection with AES Indiana (formerly Indianapolis Power & Light), the 500 Festival, Mecum Auctions & Sun King Brewery for DRR's 22nd appearance for the 500. Reinbold and Karam attended the Mecum Auction at the Indiana State Fairgrounds Wednesday morning.

The team competes fulltime in the Rallycross series since 2015, winning the 2016 Lites championship.

The sponsorships represent an Indianapolis tribute to Reinbold, who also owns an auto dealership in Greenwood. Reinbold served a six-year term on the 500 Festival committee. With the cancellation of the AES 500 Festival Parade for the second straight year, festival organizers still wanted visibility at the 500, appropriately on the DRR entry.

Reinbold has the deepest heritage among 500 team owners. He is the grandson of Floyd "Pop" Dreyer, who served as a mechanic on the famed Duesenberg in the 1927 race and later built cars that raced in the 500 in addition to midget and sprint cars.

IMS track action is idle until Friday's traditional "carburetion day," 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Race Day is Sunday with the green flag at 12:45 p.m.

YOU CAN HELP MY FRIENDS

I'm getting very excited. I've been paying close attention to what has been going on and listening closely when Fred (dad) has been talking to other people and as I understand it, we are going to be able to visit our friends at the medical facilities again. I understand that there will still be some different ways those visits might happen. I don't care. I just want to again see my friends and also make a bunch of new friends.

We are also making a last visit to the Beech Grove City Schools where we have been able to have students read stories to us. I love listening to all of them. We are looking forward to seeing some of my good friends during our visits who are retiring from Beech Grove schools this week.

I just received notice of my yearly physical examination and renewal of my therapy dog status was completed. My updated card will be sent shortly. We do this every year and I'm very proud that I have been a registered therapy dog for 14 years. I really love all the things that I get to do.

Back when I was a very young fellow, I didn't have a very good life. I was so excited when I got to move to the Southside Animal Shelter. My life took a wonderful turn for the better, and then one day my new mom and dad came along and took me to their home. It's now known to me as my "Forever Home."

We still stop in and see the animals and folks at the shelter from time to time. It really brings back memories to me.

Take a peek at the advertisement about Stuart's Wish List. This is going to be so special.

I love this idea of encouraging folks to drop things off and help fill this wish list. We are going to be in the parking lot at Beck's Service Center, Friday, June 4, 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Read the wish list page closely and please (if you can) stop by and bring some of those needed items to help the folks that make the Southside Animal Shelter a wonderful place for my friends to stay while waiting for that perfect forever home.

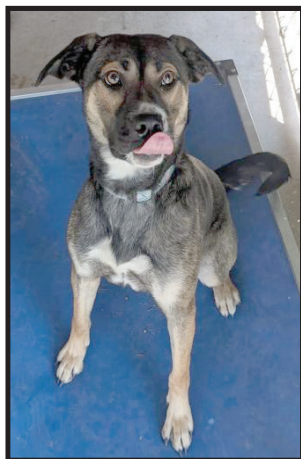

I plan to be at Beck's for that special event. I'm looking forward to seeing you. This is going to be so much fun and it will really help everyone (humans and animals) at my former home, the Southside Animal Shelter. Thank you.

DONATION MADE FOR ART KITS DISTRIBUTION

As part of its grand opening, Chuy's Southport partnered with Cancer Support Community Central Indiana and raised $4,649 for awareness for Emma's Art Kits with distribution to hospitals, including Peyton Manning Children's Hospital, Riley Hospital for Children, Eskenazi Health, Community Health Network, Franciscan Health, and Hendricks Regional Health. Making the presentation to Emma Stumpf, middle, are Chuy's Southport owner/developer Angelo DelVerne, left, and Russell Burns. Funds were raised online and during a charity night at the restaurant. Chuy's also raised funds for the Humane Society of Johnson County for a collection of dog portraits that also are on a wall at the new restaurant. Chuy's is at 4670 Southport Crossing Drive.
